PROSECUTOR TO "CLEAN UP" CITY

Believes Much Gambling is Being Done Here and Says it Must Stop.

WILL PUNISH THE OFFENDERS

Dennis O'Neil to Eradicate Evil
Though it May be Through Extraordinary Efforts.

A "clean-up" campaign on all law violations and violators in the city is planned by Prosecuting Attorney Dennis O'Neil. It is his intention to stop all offenses against the law, especially gambling. Through well founded rumors and reliable sources he has learned that much gambling is being done here and he will give this special attention. Mr. O'Neil says all gambling must stop and he intends to use every effort to punish the offenders.

Because of sickness Prosecutor O'Neil says he has not been in touch with the affairs of his office as he otherwise would have been and during this time he believes many law violators have taken advantage of him, especially the gamblers.

"I wish to say," said Mr. O'Neil today, "that all gambling must stop. Since I went to Shelbyville for two weeks on a murder trial and have since been at home sick and have been out of the city seeking health and expect to be called to the bedside of my father in Holyoke, Mass., most any time, I have not been in touch with affairs as I otherwise would have been, but you can say that I have every reason to believe that gambling has gained a strong foothold here and that it must be eradicated."

Continuing the State's attorney said: "I guarantee the public that this evil will stop even if I have to push down the doors with my own shoulders. I do not say this in the spirit of a braggadocio, but if the people will bear with me and give their support I will stop gambling though it may be through some extraordinary efforts, such as I used to drive the 'blind tigers' from the confines of Rush county. It has not been my policy to go sneaking around looking in side windows and playing the role of a detective to locate law violations, but I will do this thing but what I knock out gambling."

"This is the only serious offense which has been brought to my attention and it is confined as far as I am able to learn to this city alone and not over the county. The rest of the county is in good shape and harbors no blind tigers. The saloons of this city are conducted strictly in accordance to the law and so far I have found no cause for complaint. But this gambling business has got my 'goat' and it will end if I have to swear to the affidavits myself."

In speaking of saloons Prosecutor O'Neil said that the closing of the Seward saloon recently came as the result of his advice. He says they consulted him before the sheriff had time to serve the papers and he told them to close.

"If they had remained open I could not go back to the commissioners and the only thing for me to have done would have been to prosecute Seward on a 'blind tiger' charge, which I surely would have done," said the prosecutor.

AGED COOPER DEAD OF PALS

Peter W. Keller, Native of Germany,
Expires at Son's Home at Age of 91 Years.

EMIGRATES TO U. S. IN 1832

Peter William Keller, a native of Germany and one of the oldest men in Rush county, expired at the home of his son, Lewis Keller, living a short distance northeast of the city, yesterday. Mr. Keller was ninety-one years old last Christmas day. He had been palsied for a number of years and paralysis was the indirect cause of his death.

Mr. Keller was born in Germany on Christmas of 1820. At the age of eighteen years he came to the United States and settled in Cincinnati. He was married there and later moved to Falmouth, Kentucky, where he resided a number of years. He moved here eight years ago. Mr. Keller was a cooper by trade and worked at it as long as his health permitted.

Mr. Keller is survived by three sons, one living in Madison, Ind., another in Utah and Lewis of this city. His wife died twenty-six years ago. The funeral will be held at the son's residence tomorrow morning at ten o'clock and will be conducted by the Rev. Cyrus Yocum of the Main Street Christian church. Burial will take place in East Hill cemetery.

Generally fair with rising temperature tonight and Wednesday.

BLAIR SCORES PARTY MACHINE

Judge of Rush-Shelby Judicial Circuit Makes Sharp Remarks About Taggartism.

HACK'S DEFEAT DUE TO IT

Under Present Regime Blair Says the State Will go to Devil Instead of Democratic.

Alonzo Blair, judge of the Sixteenth Indiana judicial district, in a short speech at the Democratic county convention in Shelbyville Saturday afternoon condemned the manner in which politics was played two weeks ago at the Sixth district Democratic convention, held in Connersville, at which Charles Hack, former chairman of the Democratic committee of Shelby county, was defeated by Charles Beck of Richmond, for district chairman, says a Shelbyville dispatch to the Indianapolis News.

Mr. Blair said that Charles Hack was beheaded at Connersville by a bunch of politicians (meaning the Crawford Fairbanks-Taggart machine) who are trying to run the campaign. Mr. Blair also said that with such a gang at the head of the Democratic party in Indiana as is trying to get control of it, the State would go to the devil instead of going Democratic.

Mr. Blair stated in this convention that Charles Hack was slaughtered at Connersville by a bunch of politicians that was trying to carry Indiana at the next general election; that Hack was slaughtered for a man like Charles Beck of Richmond, who claimed that he (Beck) had no money with which to carry on the duties of the office of district chairman of the Democratic party and he so made the statement, but that if he would accept the place, although he did not have the ability, he would be provided with money.

Mr. Hack was a candidate for district chairman of the Democratic party at Connersville, but was defeated by Charles Beck of Richmond by twenty-five votes. He stated at the convention Saturday that he was not a candidate for the office of county chairman, having filled that office the latter part of one term. His name, however, was presented to the convention and the name of Thomas Hawkins was also presented. Mr. Hawkins, being a candidate, Mr. Hack withdrew his name.

RURAL CARRIERS ARE LATE

Several Wait For Mail Trains and Leave at 9:30.

Most of the rural mail carriers did not leave the postoffice until nine-thirty o'clock this morning because the C. H. & D. eastbound train due here at 5:28 was over three hours late. The carriers are not required to wait over an hour for the mail, but many of them waited this morning so as to accommodate their patrons. Carriers who have long routes and who do not ordinarily get in until late in the afternoon, did not wait for the mail.

RUN FOOT RACE IN SNOW.

James Short and James McHugh, brothers-in-law, living in the same house in St. Paul, bantered each other to race each other in their bare feet a distance of one-quarter of a mile in snow two feet deep. The wager was accepted and the race completed. Short won by only a few paces. The men's feet were nearly frozen.

SAYS ITS GOING TO BE WARMER

Weather Bureau Promises Rising
Temperature But Indications
Here Are Different.

FALLS 7 DEGREES IN 2 HOURS

Elwood Kirkwood, Weather Bureau
Director For Rush County, Gives Figures on Temperature.

The temperature will not fall below ten above tonight. That's what the weather bureau promises. But this institution has promised many things in the last two weeks which it has failed to produce and many are disposed to put aforementioned weather bureau in the Ananias club.

At any rate the weather man believes he knows what he is talking about and he declares Indiana will be visited by warmer weather tonight and tomorrow. It is the common desire that the bureau has the right "hunch" this time.

But local indications late this afternoon were that the forecaster missed the mark in his prediction today. By many thermometers at three o'clock this afternoon the temperature was two degrees below zero which is as cold as it was yesterday, the coldest day since the cold wave invaded Rushville.

Today was but little warmer than yesterday. The temperature started out at fifteen below at six o'clock this morning and there are reports of it falling lower than that during the night. It rose very slowly during the day and reached the highest point, five degrees above zero, at one o'clock. The decline of the mercury started then and within two hours it had fallen seven degrees which was a very poor forecast of warmer weather tonight.

The records of Elwood Kirkwood of Griffins, director of the weather bureau for this county, show that the temperature reached the lowest mark for a January since 1904 on last Saturday. The records of Mr. Kirkwood were taken from a government thermometer and are officially correct. A look at the records for the month of January for the past ten years shows many interesting figures and a wide range of temperature. The coldest day this month was Saturday, the thirteenth, when eighteen below zero was recorded by Mr. Kirkwood's thermometer.

In January, 1904, there was a day which was one degree colder than has yet been recorded here. The next coldest day this month was the seventh when the thermometer dropped to 17 below zero. This morning the temperature was 15 below at six o'clock according to Mr. Kirkwood. Since 1903 there has been only one January when the mercury did not go below zero. This was in 1908. During the month of January, 1908,

INEZ MAY M'CLOUD DEAD

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mc-Cloud Passed Away.

Word was received here last evening of the death of Inez May McCloud, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred McCloud of Chicago. The particulars of the little girl's death was not learned and the cause is not known. She died yesterday morning at ten o'clock. The remains will be brought here for burial arriving tomorrow morning at nine o'clock over the C. H. & D. railway. The funeral services will be held in the St. Paul M. E. church conducted by the Rev. V. W. Tevis.

the coldest recorded was six above. Last year the coldest day in January was the fourth, when a temperature of 2 below was noted.

A peculiar range in temperature is noted during this month in the year 1906. The minimum was 11 below and the maximum was 71 above. In 1910 the government thermometer registered 9 below on the morning of January 7.

The following is the record as kept by Mr. Kirkwood showing the mean, maximum and minimum temperatures and the amount of rainfall for the month of January since 1903:

	Mean	Max	Min	Rain
1903	16.1	61	-9	2.77
1904	20.6	48	-19	4.40
1905	22.6	59	-14	2.20
1906	34.4	71	-11	2.54
1907	33.9	67	-4	8.05
1908	30.4	51	-6	2.31
1909	31.4	66	-1	2.45
1910	28	58	-9	3.41

SAYS TAFT WILL BE NOMINATED

But James E. Watson of This City is Not Certain That President
Will be Elected.

INTERVIEWED IN NEW YORK

In an interview which the Washington Post published this morning, former Representative James E. Watson expresses himself dubiously as the prospect for the re-election of President Taft, says a Washington dispatch. He says:

"I think Taft will get Indiana in the convention, and undoubtedly will be nominated, but whether he will be elected is not so much of a certainty. I believe Taft can carry Indiana against either Wilson or Bryan, but as against another candidate, I can not prophesy. The farmers of Indiana are still angry at Taft because of his efforts to force reciprocity upon them, and many of them may remain away from the polls as they did in the last State election. I believe that approximately 100,000 Republicans did not vote last time. Most of them were farmers."

WILLIAMS FALLS DOWN STAIRWAY

Colored Man, Drunk Again, Sustains
Concussion of Brain in Headlong Tumble.

DEEP GASH CUT IN TEMPLE

Ben Williams, colored, the most arrested man in Rushville, got on a drunk today—or perhaps it was the same drunk—and he came to grief. He attempted to walk down the outside stairway at the south end of the Commercial block this afternoon and tumbled headlong to the sidewalk below. He was picked up and carried to Dr. W. S. Coleman's office nearby where his wounds were dressed. Williams was unconscious and suffered much pain. He struck the sidewalk with a terrific thud.

He sustained a deep gash about an inch long in his left temple. The physician after a hasty examination said he believed Williams had suffered a slight concussion of the brain, but he expressed the opinion that the injury was not fatal. He said there was no compression in which case the wound would most likely be fatal. The outer plate of his skull, the physician said, was crushed, but he did not believe the inner plate was damaged.

NEW COURSES WILL BE ADDED

Changes Will be Made in High School Faculty at Beginning of New Semester.

NEW INSTRUCTOR EMPLOYED

Public Speaking, Higher Lessons in English and Advanced Algebra to be New Courses.

The first semester in the city schools will close Friday of this week, and with the close comes the announcement of changes in and additions to the high school faculty.

Public speaking will be taught in the high school after this semester. Prof. H. B. Wilson of the English department will teach a class in higher lessons in English. Another new class will be that of advanced and review algebra.

John R. Clark has tendered his resignation as professor in the mathematics department after having taught here one semester. His place will be filled by O. D. Tyner who formerly had charge of this department. Miss Anna Bobinette will be an addition to the faculty. She will be an assistant in the Latin and English departments.

Examinations in all of the grades of the public schools above the fifth will be held Thursday. Promotions in the grades will be made Friday evening. The new classes in the high school will not begin until Monday.

Public speaking will be taught by L. B. Smelser. This subject is a popular one with a number of pupils who wish to improve their ability to speak and read effectively. Some pupils have already signified their intention of entering the class and also have determined upon making the race for State High Oratorical Contest which this year will be held at Lafayette.

H. B. Wilson will teach the class in higher lessons in English. This work is very helpful to these intending to teach as the work thoroughly reviews grammar.

A class in advanced and review algebra will be formed to prepare those who wish to make further use of their mathematics either in college or in engineering schools. This work will be taught by O. D. Tyner who returns this week after completing his work in Indiana University. Mr. Tyner will be welcomed back to the community again by pupils, teachers, and patrons.

John R. Clark who has taught mathematics in the local high school the first half of the year has tendered his resignation to take effect Friday. Mr. Clark is a young man of splendid character and intellectual ability. His work here has been highly successful. He will enter Indiana University at once where he expects to finish the requirements for the A. B. degree in Mathematics, the latter part of March. About the first of April, he will enter Chicago University to pursue further studies along his chosen line. Mr. Clark has made splendid progress for one of age, and, with the determination and ability he has, success for him is very certain.

Miss Anna Robinette, a graduate of Hiram college and a post graduate student in Chicago University, will become a member of the high school faculty next Monday, as assistant in Latin and English. Miss Robinette has had three years of high school experience and has been in Chicago University this year working along the lines she will teach here. She comes well recommended, and will assist in giving an opportunity to broaden the course in the high school.

HAD NEITHER FUEL CLOTHING NOR FOOD

Crazed By Starvation Woman Planned Children's Death.

Hammond, Ind., Jan. 16.—The murder of five starving children by their mother, Mrs. Andrew Szymanski of Whiting, was prevented by the providential visit of a relative, who found the mother, armed with a butcher knife, about to stab her six-months-old baby. A desperate encounter followed, in which the woman was disarmed.

The family had had neither fuel, clothing nor food for three days. Szymanski, the husband, was found in a saloon. Doctors examined the mother and declared she had gone mad from starvation. She is at St. Margaret's hospital. The husband is under arrest. In a partially sane moment Mrs. Szymanski said she intended killing all her starving children to end their suffering.

POULTRY NOTES

The profits in poultry culture are measured by the care given.

It is useless to expect many eggs from old fowls of any variety.

All scraps of vegetables from the table should be given to the hens.

A poultryman is judged by his surroundings and the condition of his fowls.

Hens need to be provided with a summer dust bath as well as in the winter.

Grit enables the gizzard to prepare the food for digestion. It is a fowl's false teeth.

The dropping-boards should be regularly cleaned and the fifth removed from the houses.

It is of little profit to have a good supply of eggs if we cannot market them to advantage.

A large part of the heavy loss from bad eggs can be obviated by the production of infertile eggs.

The market age of goslings is twelve weeks, which is a short time after they have feathered out.

Chickens are creatures of habit. Whether they are lazy or active depends largely on the way they are raised.

The enemies of the fresh egg market are the preserved and the tested out incubator eggs. Be above such trickery.

Guinea fowls do not mate in pairs like pigeons or doves. One male to several fowls is the proper way to mate them.

At the present day many poultrymen grind part of their chicken feed into a meal so it can be fed into either a dry or wet mash.

Any breed of hens will consume an enormous quantity of feed before commencing to lay, but after having once begun will not require so much grain as before.

In most public libraries all books are disinfected when they are returned.

"Best on Earth"

This is the verdict of R. J. Howell, Tracy, O., who bought Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for his wife. "Her case was worst I have ever seen, and looked like a sure case of consumption. Her lungs were sore and she coughed almost incessantly and her voice was hoarse and weak. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound brought relief at once and less than three bottles effected a complete cure." MARTIN IN AGAIN.

Cordia Martin of Greenfield, who was released from jail under bonds of $800, is again in custody in default of bonds of $500 for his appearance as a witness in the case of the State against Dan Williams, who is under indictment for robberies in which Martin is said to have been implicated. The Williams case is set for January 22.

DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it.

Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure dandruff and itching scalp.

This remedy is ZEMO, a clean, refined, penetrating scalp tonic that goes right to the seat of the trouble and drives the germ life to the surface and destroys it.

A shampoo with ZEMO (ANTISEPTIC) SOAP and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate, but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

Sold and endorsed in Rushville by the F. E. WOLCOTT Drug Store.

OLD-TIME REMEDY DARKENS THE HAIR

Gives Color, Lustre to Faded and Gray Hair—Dandruff Quickly Removed.

From time immemorial, sage and sulphur have been used for the hair and scalp. Almost everyone knows of the value of such a combination for darkening the hair, for curing dandruff and falling hair, and for making the hair grow.

In olden times the only way to get a hair tonic of this sort was to brew it in the home fireplace, a method which was troublesome and not always satisfactory. Nowadays almost every up-to-date druggist can supply his patrons with a ready-to-use product, skillfully compounded in perfectly equipped laboratories.

The Wyeth Chemical Company of New York put up an ideal remedy of this sort, called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, and authorize druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

If you have dandruff, or if your hair is turning gray or coming out, don't delay, but get a bottle of this remedy to-day, and see what a few days' treatment will do for you.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists.

VALUE OF HIDES SHOWED SLUMP

Government Interested In Packingtown Figures.

SUSPICIOUS RELATION HINTED

When Credits Were Practically Nil for Hides, the Prosecution Will Attempt to Show, Prices of Meats Aviated With Suspicious Uniformity—Witness Moyer Subjected to Rapid Fire Interrogation by Federal Examiner.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—Henry F. Moyer, chief accountant for Morris & Co., a witness for the government in the trial of the packers for alleged violations of the Sherman anti-trust law, was subjected to a rigid examination.

Assistant United States Attorney James Sheehan turned with lightning-like rapidity from one page to another of the many account books on hand. With every such move he shot a question at the witness concerning certain entries, or rather the lack of them.

The government showed that hides to the value expressed in five figures were credited in three figures. The sudden dropping of credits for hides, the government claimed, was one of the manners in which inflated and excessive values were put upon fresh beef. For instance, in the month of May, 1908, the number of cattle purchased by Swift & Co. was 15,779. Every one of these animals yielded a hide. The average weight of these hides was slightly more than seventy pounds. The price per pound ranged from 18 cents downward, yet the hide credits for May, 1908, were humbly stated at $210.

In June of the same year the number of cattle purchased increased 5,000 over the month of May. The hide allowance shrank to $105.50. The government will try to show that when credits were practically nil for hides with all the packers the prices of meats aviated with suspicious uniformity in the houses controlled by the different packing firms.

The prosecution will try to show, it is said, that a steer weighing 1,000 pounds on the hoof when dressed to beef netted 550 pounds of salable meat. The net dressed weight sale price would realize a net profit on the whole, the hide, the fat, horns, hoofs and other by-products turning in a grand total of net profits while the public footed the bills. An effort made to secure data made on sales margins noted by the different packing companies signally failed. Witness Moyer could not state when he last saw the books or data bearing on the margins of 1908. He vouchsafed the opinion that they long since had been destroyed or burned.

NEARING THE END

The Manchus Have Prepared Edict Announcing Abdication.

Peking, Jan. 16.—Within three or four days a momentous edict will be issued which will go much further than has been expected. It will not only announce the abdication of the reigning family, but will decree the establishment of a republican form of government for China, the people to elect a president.

No Fighting For a Fortnight.

Shanghai, Jan. 16.—An armistice has been arranged to last for a fortnight. The conditions are that neither side will attack until ordered.

Young Girl Loses Tip of Tongue When She Touches It to Iron Fence.

Winchester, Ind., Jan. 16.—As the result of touching her tongue to a cold iron fence, Cathleen Smith, aged ten, is minus the end of her tongue. Miss Smith was on her way home from the grocery when she met several of her schoolmates. While they were playing the girl touched her tongue to the fence. Her tongue stuck to the cold metal and when she jerked it loose the tip was torn off.

Millions Left to Charity.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—The will of the late Richard T. Crane disposes of property estimated at values as high as $20,000,000. Charles R. and Richard, the sons named as executors, will get perhaps the major portion of their father's property. The third son, Herbert P. Crane, and the several daughters, the will states, had been cared for prior to the drawing of the instrument. Specific bequests devote $2,500,000 to charitable works.

Tired of Her Husband.

St. Louis, Jan. 16.—Mme. Schumann-Heink, the grand opera singer, announces that she will soon file a suit for divorce against her husband, William Rapp, of Paterson, N. J., who is twelve years her junior. She said that the estrangement between herself and her husband was due to her children.

40-Cent Butter.

Elgin, Ill., Jan. 16.—Monday's butter price, 40 cents, broke the records of twenty-four years. This is the highest price since the week of Nov. 26, 1883, when quotations were declared firm at 41 1/2 cents.

IS HITCHCOCK AN INDISPENSABLE?

Washington Gossip Emphasizes His Hold On Taft.

WAN'S TO AVOID OPEN BREAK

Postmaster General's Sensational Publicity of Government Ownership Scheme Without Indorsement or Knowledge of President Creates Impression That Hitchcock Is in a Position to Put on Independent Airs.

Washington, Jan. 16.—Calling on him to explain why, without consulting him, he had announced publicly that he would recommend to congress the taking over by the United States government of all the telegraph lines of the country, President Taft summoned Frank H. Hitchcock, his postmaster general, to the White House. Mr. Hitchcock replied that he had intended to confer with Mr. Taft on the subject, but after having made arrangements for publication, was hurriedly called out of town. He recalled to Mr. Taft's mind that he had discussed the government ownership question with him a year ago when he (Hitchcock) had embodied it in a preliminary draft of his annual report.

President Taft accepted Mr. Hitchcock's explanation and the talk of an immediate break between them has been allayed. It remains, however, for Mr. Taft still to say whether he will accept or reject Postmaster General Hitchcock's plan for government ownership of telegraphs. Everything in Mr. Taft's record of utterances indicate that he will reject it. He has declared repeatedly against the government ownership idea as applied to the railroads of the country on the ground that it would place too great a power in the hands of the president. "We have enough concentrated power at Washington now," was the president's declaration in a western speech a year or so ago when he was discussing the government ownership idea.

Mr. Hitchcock's government ownership recommendation will come before the president formally in Mr. Hitchcock's annual report, which will reach the president in a few days. The smoothing of the trouble is therefore merely a postponement of the "evil day." If Mr. Hitchcock is turned down by the president after the publicity episode the crisis that has been imminent in the Taft cabinet for some time may be reached.

The present development at the White House has not altered the fact that the relations between Mr. Taft and the postmaster general are strained. The bald truth is that President Taft and some of his advisers want to avoid any open break with Mr. Hitchcock. They realize that Hitchcock still has a strong control over southern Republicans and that the enforced retirement of Hitchcock from the cabinet might endanger the president's hold on the delegates from the south. Furthermore, it would precipitate a row in the Republican national committee that might work grave harm to Mr. Taft's chances.

This feeling of Mr. Taft and some of his advisers that Hitchcock is indispensable has strengthened Hitchcock's own grip on the south and has made him probably more independent than he might otherwise be.

Members of the committee are hopeful that the cross-examination will be finished this week and the committee may be enabled to undertake the rendering of its report next week.

Winters Colds.

The absurd dread of "night air"—which simply means fresh air at night—is one of the most harmful superstitions ever cherished by the human race.

Fresh air is clean air, says Woman's World. You would not dream of eating from dirty dishes. Well, when you sleep in a closed room you are simply filling up your lungs—for seven or eight hours at a stretch—with dirty air. Is it any wonder that you rise the next morning sluggish and unrested, perhaps with a dull headache and an unpleasant taste in your mouth? Your system has been poisoned, that's all.

Perhaps you think you have ventilated your bed room sufficiently by leaving the window open for a half hour or so before you retire. That's a mistake. One person can exhaust all the oxygen in an unventilated room in an hour. Furthermore, to be fresh air should be in motion. Stagnant air is foul air, just as stagnant water is foul water.

Winter or summer, one window of your sleeping room should be open. Don't worry about taking cold. Physicians realize and preach nowadays that colds, sore throat, bronchitis and tuberculosis are caused not by cold air, but by bad air. Outdoor sleeping is the most modern and successful treatment for consumption.

Sleep at least eight hours a night, always with your window open. Drink lots of milk, and take three or four raw eggs a day. Drink plenty of fresh water. Exercise moderately in the open air, being careful not to overdo to the point of exhaustion. Don't worry even about being thin.

The Hague Tribunal which was organized to secure peace among nations had made some progress in that direction, but the Italians and the Russians have given it a severe setback in their wars with Tripoli and Persia, respectively.

The pressing need is that nations shall agree by solemn compact to settle all their differences by peaceful processes. Arbitration treaties have heretofore excluded so many classes of controversies from the scope of their operation that they have had little effect in checking the constant and ruinous expenditures in preparation for war.

Notwithstanding the Hague Tribunal and all else, there are today more soldiers, more fortifications, more guns, more shells and bombs and torpedoes, and more ships of war upon the sea than ever before in the history of the world. More money is now spent in preparation for war than was spent in former times in waging war. The burden of this is crushing the life of the nation and is handicapping the progress of all humanitarian movements.

The arbitration treaties of the United States with France and Great Britain now awaiting ratification by the senate mark the farthest advance toward Universal Peace because they provide that all disputes that can be arbitrated shall be submitted to proper tribunals for settlement.

Every citizen who believes that disputes between nations can be settled by arbitration just as well as disputes between individuals, should at once write to his senator and urge upon them the duty of furthering, and not impeding this movement. One of the greatest efforts of civilized humanity is at stake.

Mr. Edison, having been asked what he considered the nearest approximation to happiness, made this reply: "Why, living on a farm which is one's own, far from the hectic artificial conditions of the city—a farm where one gets directly from one's own soil what one needs to sustain life, with a garden in front and a healthy, normal family to contribute those small domestic strains." One would suppose that Edison, recalling his wonderful achievements in scientific investigation and the many uses he has made of the forces of nature, would regard his own calling as the one most promotive of happiness. But he would go to the farm to secure the nearest approximation of happiness.

The Indianapolis Sun has deserted Bob LaFollette for Dolly Dimples, says the Marion Chronicle. In view of the fact that the LaFollette visit to Indiana ushered in the frostiest spell Indiana has had in years the Sun's search for a more popular proposition is not surprising.

While discussions of arbitration treaties are going on. Germany is making provisions for two additional army corps.

Senator LaFollette's chief trouble continues to be the difficulty in laboring as an assistant Democrat without openly taking the full degree.

Old-fashioned winters are stylish again.

No matter how much fun we make of this weather we just can't seem to be able to drive it from its entrenchments. But Parson Hicks said it was going to be cold in January, and since it is foreordained, what will be, will be.

Somehow or other that's the way this Colyum feels about the election of Bill Taft. It would be a baleful hypocrit not to reflect the sentiment of its half dozen or "stand-bys."

From the high headed way in which some people walk down the street you would never imagine their undershirt was still the property of the clothing man, and that the newspaper in their pocket represented one of the printer's bad debts.

We are going to print a treatise on the local "wet" and "dry" question in a very few days. It will deal with the question, which is an all important one now, in a most comprehensive manner and it will be fair to all concerned. Watch for it!

Now's the time to subscribe.

Hash poisoned one hundred and fifty at the Leavenworth soldiers' home. The good honest flesh of Towser never did that.

These are the days, Gwendolyn, these are the days.

Far and remote be it from "weuns" to make any disparaging remarks about members of the draft, but there are some members of the Paragraphers union which have been making remarks continually about leap year and warning the young squirts to beware of the maidens fair. Now if we were these aforementioned maidens, which we are not, we would be offended. Most of the paragraphers we know couldn't get a girl with an automobile, which they have not and they are leading their patrons to believe they have to fight off with threats of violence. If a girl does start to do the proposing it's a good wager they'll not start on any member of the Local 87.

Colored Character Persuaded to Enter Soldiers' Home.

George Anderson, colored, famous for bony horses and broken down drays, has been taken to the Marion Soldiers' Home. George was once a familiar figure on the streets of the city, but due to poor health and his advanced age, he has not been seen of late. For many years efforts have been made to get him to go to the home, but he would never give in. It was through the efforts of Mrs. Lizzie Adams of East Seventh street that George was persuaded to give up his "business" and enter the Marion institution.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace theater has been closed for repairs and will not be opened again until the Saturday matinee. No evening program will be given before Saturday.

The Princess will have the usual change of program tonight showing as the first picture, a Vitagraph, "A Message From Beyond." It is a beautiful story telling a very impressive lesson. The other film is a "Pathe Weekly." It is another of those famous pictures showing many scenes from all over the world.

The Portola offers as the first picture tonight a feature Essanay war drama entitled "He Fought For the U. S. A." It is a thrilling picture and is said to be very realistic. The other picture is an Edison comedy, "Togan's Babies." This one is very amusing and is said to be a clever picture full of clean comedy.

WANTS MORE CLOTHING

Salvation Army Still Has Calls For Provisions, Too.

The Salvation Army is still making appeals for more clothing and food to supply the needy people of Rushville who call on them for help due to the cold weather. Capt. Cook says they have more calls for clothing than for provisions although provisions will be gladly accepted. Nine men were sheltered in the Salvation Army church and fed of nights last week after this plan was set in operation by the Army and the city.

FEED BOB WHITE AND PARTRIDGES

Fish and Game Commissioner Urges Game Preserve Correspondent to Keep Birds From Perishing.

SENDS OUT CIRCULAR LETTER

All game preserve correspondents are in receipt of the following letter from the fish and game commissioner, which is self explanatory:

"I beg of you that, while the snow covers the ground, you see to it that a little screenings of grain of some kind be placed where the Hungarian partridges we have furnished you, as well as your own bob whites, will find it, that you urge your neighbors, whether their lands are in a game preserve or not, to do likewise. These birds will not be in danger of perishing from cold if a reserve of fat be kept in their little bodies, but if they can not get to the ground to feed and no food be supplied them, within a few days their reserve of heat producing fat will be exhausted and then famine and cold will destroy them.

"This department has expended a good many thousands of dollars in the experiment of establishing the Hungarian partridge here and making them our own, as are our native quails, and there is fair prospect that we shall succeed. Many young birds have been bred and reared in the State during the last two seasons. I appeal to you, and to all persons interested in this experiment, that you give this department your assistance in bringing them safely through the present winter."

The Pool of Flame

"Stubborn brute," growled Couch.
"Most of these animals here belong to some devilish tongue or other, and they'd rather die than say anything touching on the business of the society or affecting the interests of a brother-member. But I think I know a way to bring him to reason. Hand me that knife, please."

Wondering, O'Rourke tendered him the weapon that had brought death to Sypher. The lieutenant wiped it cautiously on a corner of the coolie's blouse and held the keen shining blade before his eyes, accompanying the action with a few emphatic phrases. A curious expression, compounded of sullen fury and abject panic, showed in the Chinaman's eyes, and his lips were as if by magic unsealed. However reluctant, he began to chatter and spoke at length, delivering himself of a long statement which Couch punctured now and again with pertinent, leading questions.

At length, throwing aside the knife, he jumped up, strong excitement burning in his eyes. "I've got enough from him," he said rapidly. "I'll explain later. You'll help of course; your wife's involved as well as Miss Pynsent. But I don't think you need fear; we'll be in time. Are you ready?"

Half a minute; I've got to use that telephone."

He ran out into the hall, rang up and shouted a number into the receiver, and for a few moments spoke rapidly in a Burmese dialect. O'Rourke gathered that he was speaking with a native subordinate at the police headquarters in Rangoon.

Couch swung back into the study. "Got those revolvers, sir? Then come along; we'll have to run for it. Fortunately our launch is handy; otherwise . . ."

He sprang across the veranda and down to the lawn, O'Rourke pelting after him.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

A night of velvet blackness, softly opaque, lay upon land and water. The police launch, shuddering with the vibrations of a motor running at high tension, sped down the silent reaches of Rangoon River like a hunted ghost. She ran without lights, these having been extinguished by Couch's directions, regardless of harbor regulations or danger. Happily the hour was late enough to relieve them of much fear of trouble with other craft; the upper reaches of the river were practically deserted.

In the bow Couch was handling the wheel with the nonchalance of one from whom the river had no secrets by night or day. To O'Rourke it seemed no light task to pilot so slight a craft at such high speed through that Stygian darkness; yet the sub-chief was accomplishing the feat without a discernable trace of fear or tremor of uncertainty.

O'Rourke sat beside him. In the stern a police orderly acted as mechanic, attending to the motor. These three, no more, made up the rescue party.

Though devoured by impatience and anxiety, O'Rourke forbore to question Couch, hesitating to divert his attention from his task and knowing that as soon as he could the young lieutenant would speak. From the time when the coolie had yielded, there had been not a second's rest for either; neither had had time to confer save on questions of the most immediate moment; and control of these Couch had voluntarily and naturally assumed, deciding, acting and directing in the same thought, apparently.

"Your wife, with Miss Pynsent," said Couch abruptly, without looking round—"at least I presume it's Mrs. O'Rourke, from what you say—have been kidnapped by a gang of highlanders and are now aboard a junk in the lower river, which will sail for God-knows-where at the turn of the tide. That's the only thing that saves 'em. We'll be on 'em before they're able to force a way down the river."

O'Rourke groaned, holding his head with both hands. "My wife . . .!" he said brokenly.

"I know," Couch interrupted grimly; "I know how you feel. Miss Pynsent is there, too, you see."

"Oh," said O'Rourke, "I didn't understand that. . . . I'm sorry." He dropped a hand on the younger man's shoulder and let it rest there briefly. "Please God," he said reverently, "there'll be many another polluted yellow soul yammering at the gates of hell this night!"

"Amen!" said Couch. . . . We shan't be long now."

Silently O'Rourke removed his coat and waist-coat, his collar and lawn tie, and turned back his cuffs. "Evening clothes are hardly the thing to fight in," he said; "but I'm thinking 'twon't make a deal of difference to me. Got any cartridges for a Webley mark IV?"

RED ITCHING SKIN

Likely to be First Stage of Eczema—What to Do.

Try This Remedy at Our Risk

When the skin of face or body feels hot, drawn and irritable, it is likely to break out with small watery pimples accompanied by violent itching. This is one form of eczema, and should be attended to at once.

In all our experience we have never found anything to give such uniformly good results in skin troubles and eruptions, whether acute or chronic, as our new skin remedy, Saxon Salve.

Besides allaying the frightful itching almost soon as applied, it sinks into the skin like water into a sponge and thus completely envelops the diseased portion with its powerful healing and soothing ingredients. Improvement is seen in a very short time, and the skin is rendered soft and smooth again.

We cheerfully give back your money if Saxon Salve is not satisfactory. F. B. Johnson & Co., Drug-gist Rushville, Ind.

"Wheeler has. Give Colonel O'Rourke a few, Wheeler," said Couch, addressing the orderly.

The latter rummaged in a locker and pressed into O'Rourke's hand half a dozen cartridges, with which the adventurer proceeded to replenish the empty chamber in his revolver.

"I'd only discharged one," he observed, "but 'tis likely we'll need that, even, with only the three of us against a junk-lead."

"Oh, I telephoned for reinforcements, of course," returned Couch. "They ought to be there ahead of us."

"What did the coolie tell ye, if ye've time to talk?"

Couch laughed. "I daresay you're wondering how I made him speak at all."

"That's the true word for ye."

"I threatened to cut off his silly pig-tail and send him naked and dishonored to the ghostly halls of his ancestors. It's wonderful how much those callous brutes dote on that decoration. I told him further, that if he lied, when I found it out I'd return and shave him bald as an egg, even if he were dead by that time. So I persuaded the truth from him, the whole story—from his side of it."

"I'm listening."

"He confessed he was in the pay—like these chaps we're after now—of a highly respectable Chinese merchant and head of one of the tongs—one of the richest men in Rangoon, who, it seems, was also after that ruby. I can't imagine what he wanted of it, but that'll come out, probably; the man's rich enough to buy dozens of stones as fine. However . . . I gather he'd laid his plan far ahead. The coolies intimidated you'd been watched all the way from Bombay. At all events, the brutes were ready when you arrived; Sypher was a doomed man from the moment you handed over the Pool of Flame. They surrounded his house this night, coming up from the river, just as soon as it was dark enough to conceal their actions. Then they found a third element in the business—your friend Des Trebes, all unsuspecting of them, lurking on the veranda and watching Sypher through the window. So they waited to see what he was up to. And pretty soon they found out. Sypher came downstairs, went to the safe and opened it; I presume he had the stone in his hand, ready to put away. While he was standing there the Frenchman slipped up behind and stabbed him, annexing the stone and leaving the way he got in. The instant he stepped off the veranda the Chinese got him; but he managed to scream before they could silence him and drew the attention of the household, Miss Pynsent, your wife and the servants. So to cover things up they had to gather them all in. The servants were killed—there were three of them—and the women . . ."

Neither man spoke for a time. Then Couch resumed.

"This coolie was an outsider—a servant of the merchant's—not one of the junk gang; so he stayed ashore, and thought it would be a fine young scheme to return and do a little looting on his own . . . I've telephoned the head office to arrest that cursed merchant and confiscate his house and goods and detain anybody they could catch connected with him. The net's well enough laid, and I think . . ."

The lights of the city became visible, strung along the right bank of the river as the launch rounded a bend. Couch swung the little boat out into midstream. "Half-speed, Wheeler," he said, adding to O'Rourke: "I've got to pick out that junk. I presume the right one will have all sail set and be moving downstream with the tide; it's just on the turn now and fortunately there's no wind worth mentioning. . . . I wish I could see something of the other launch." He peered anxiously into the obscurity ahead. "If there were only starlight—" he complained bitterly. "Stand by, Wheeler, to stop the motor. We'll drop alongside with the current, as quietly as we can. Colonel O'Rourke, will you get forward and take the boathook and headwarp, please; I'm needed at the wheel and Wheeler at the engine until we make fast."

Cautiously the Irishman rose, took the boathook Couch offered him, and crept out upon the narrow triangle of deck at the bows. Crouching there, he found the headwarp and waited, tense with anxious expectancy, staring ahead in futile effort to penetrate the wide, shadowy reaches of the river. But the mystical distances confused and eluded him. The launch seemed to move, panting, in an abyss of night. She made little noise: a hiss of water beneath her stem; the steady humming of the motor, throttled down to half speed; the muffled gasping of the exhaust. And presently even these ceased at a word from Couch, and the launch moved only with the tide.

Downfall of the Strategist

Miss Turner, the dancing teacher, stopped in front of Mrs. Boyd, who had come to enjoy the vision of her son gliding gracefully over the floor, and beamed upon her. Miss Turner laid her hand affectionately upon the shoulder of the unregenerate Kendall, who stalked beside her.

"Kendall's doing beautifully. Mrs. Boyd," she said, enthusiastically. "He danced with every girl in the class last week. He's really getting to like dancing, and he wants to."

She swept away and Kendall plumped into the chair beside his mother.

"Guff!" he growled.

Mrs. Boyd tactfully ignored this remark. "They're going to begin dancing again," she said, after a moment's pause. "Don't you think you'd better run and get a partner?"

"Sure," said Kendall. He stood up and looked about the room with an appraising eye. "I'll ask Madeline," he announced after a careful inspection. He darted across the hall, but returned after a short absence and dropped into the chair with a sigh.

"Aren't you going to dance?" asked his mother in surprise.

"Madeline wouldn't do it," Kendall explained, briefly.

"Why not?" Mrs. Boyd demanded, bristling maternally.

"Didn't say," replied Kendall, gruffly.

Mrs. Boyd glared across at Madeline with a glare which said plainly, "Rude little creature!" but she said nothing.

"Why aren't you dancing, Kendall?" Miss Turner ceased her airy gyrations a few minutes later to ask.

"Madeline wouldn't," said Kendall.

Miss Turner looked across the room at Madeline. "I don't understand that," she said in a puzzled, disapproving tone. "Madeline loves to dance and she has no partner. Perhaps she's tired. Kendall, run and ask Polly. She's not dancing."

Kendall obediently jumped to his feet and presently was making the prescribed bow to Polly. Mrs. Boyd and Miss Turner, watching them from afar, saw Polly shake her head.

"Now, that's strange," murmured Miss Turner. "I think it's about time for me to interfere. I know it isn't because the girls don't like to dance with Kendall," she explained apologetically as she started away, "because he's really awfully popular."

Mrs. Boyd was not at all pleased when a few minutes after her son returned and resumed his seat beside her.

"Wouldn't Polly dance with you?" she asked in a restrained tone.

"Nope," replied Kendall.

"I'll speak to Miss Turner about it," said Mrs. Boyd firmly. "I don't like to make a fuss, but the girls oughtn't to be allowed to behave that way. It's rude."

"Miss Turner knows," said Kendall. "She asked 'em, too."

"Did they say they wouldn't?" persisted Mrs. Boyd. She was becoming more than annoyed; she was undoubtedly angry. "Little Hottentots!" she murmured to herself.

"Yes'm," said Kendall, dutifully.

"Did they say why?"

"No'm," said Kendall.

Mrs. Boyd eyed the entire feminine contingent with stern disapproval. "Rude little creatures!" she said aloud this time.

"Come with me, Kendall," Miss Turner said after a short colloquy with Mrs. Boyd. "I'll find you a partner."

With Kendall lagging a few feet behind her she stopped in front of Polly. "I want you to dance with Kendall, Polly dear," she said. "Come, please."

Polly let one tiny foot slip to the ground. Then she drew it back with a look of terror.

"Oh, please don't make me," she said, the tears starting to her eyes.

Miss Turner held out a compelling hand. "Come!" she said, decidedly.

"I can't," wailed Polly, rising and flinging herself into Miss Turner's arms. "Oh, please don't make me."

"Why can't you, dear?" asked Miss Turner.

"I mustn't tell," sobbed Polly. Utterly at a loss, Miss Turner tried to stop the sobs.

"Yeth, I will tell, too." It was Dorothy's shrill little voice that suddenly drowned both Polly's sobs and Miss Turner's murmurings. "Cause you didn't make me promise before I got the apple and then I wouldn't promise at all. Kendall, he gave all the girls two plecthes of candy and some of 'em three plecthes, Mith Turner, when they wouldn't promit for two, and he gave me a apple, if we'd promise not to ever dance with him, 'cause he said if the girls wouldn't dance with him maybe his mother wouldn't make him come."

"That will do, Dorothy." Miss Turner interrupted the shrill flow of oratory in a choked voice. "You needn't tell me any more." For a moment she buried her face in Polly's mop of curls. "Come with me into the dressing room, dear, and let's wash your face," she said soothingly. Then she turned to Kendall.

"I'll be back in a minute, Kendall," she said to that crestfallen strategist. "Just sit down and wait for me. I'll dance the next with you myself."

PAPER BAG COOKING

Great System Perfected by M. Soyer, Famous London Chef.

MEANS ECONOMY IN FOOD.

By Martha McCulloch Williams.

Economy, which is now the cry in all things, from postage to politics, has no more valiant helper than M. Soyer's system of paper bag cooking.

Roasts which have a knack of shrinking horribly in the pan come out of paper bags almost the size which they came from the butcher, and possessed of their full food value. They will have been cooked in vapors of their own essence—the best part of them will not have run out, to dry on the pan bottom, and smell most appetizingly, but in large measure lost to the palate. There will be gravy in the bag, to be sure—gravy fit for a king.

In case of fish, the results are even better. Pan-cooking wastes a fifth, a fourth, sometimes even a third of a fish.

Vegetables also taste better, and are better, for bag cooking. Bag cooking preserves in them their essential salts, which boiling takes away.

Because all manner of seasoning is thus conserved and driven into the food care must be taken to use seasoning lightly.

Here is a way of using up cold dinner meat that hearty children will relish, and even the man of the house not disdain. Cut the meat in slices, neither too thick nor too thin, and as broad as possible, butter them, sprinkle them well with salted flour, and a very little pepper. Lay in a well-greased bag, side by side, then place upon each a tomato, peeled, hollowed out, dusted inside with sugar, salt and pepper, then stuffed. Boiled rice is a good stuffing, so is cooked macaroni or spaghetti cut small. Bread crumbs fried brown are likewise tasty. Season the stuffing well and mix through it all the snippets and trimmings of the meat. Use either butter, bacon, or cold boiled pork, well minced, to enrich the stuffing. Scatter between the tomatoes the scoopings from their insides. Place in bag, seal it, and cook in a hot oven about twelve minutes.

Quick Potatoes.—Take a large white potatoe for each person to be fed. Peel, slice thin, drop in cold water for five minutes, then drain, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and pack compactly in a well-greased bag, adding a tablespoonful of stock or milk and water, for each two potatoes. Seal, and cook twenty minutes. Boiled potatoes can be used, and take only half as long.

Baked Apples.—Wash well, but do not peel, cut out specks and bruises, core, fill the bottom of the core-space with a lump of butter, over which pile sugar, and add a bit of cinnamon. A clove stuck in the side may take the place of the cinnamon. Seal inside a well greased bag, and bake eighteen to twenty minutes in a fairly hot oven. Serve with sugar and cream or a hard sauce.

Pudding a la Mayence. Black Coffee. Crackers. Cheese.

Broiled Chicken.—Split the chicken down the middle of the back, spread flat, and put a skewer in each side to prevent it from curling. Beat up a very fresh egg, with a pinch of salt, black pepper to taste, an ounce of melted butter, a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce or something similar, and a teaspoonful of made mustard. Mix well. With a brush glaze the chicken with the mixture. Place in a greased bag with bread crumbs around and over it. Be careful that the skewers do not tear the bag. Seal up tight and cook thirty-five to forty minutes in a very hot oven.

Mushrooms.—Peel and wash the mushrooms, brush them lightly over with melted butter, dust with salt and pepper, and put into a buttered bag with a lump of butter, a little water, and a spoonful of lemon juice or port or sherry wine. Seal tight and cook in a hot oven twelve to twenty minutes.

Asparagus.—Trim and scrape as for boiling, wash very clean. Tie in bundles and put into a buttered bag, with a little salt and half a gill of water. Seal and cook thirty-five to forty minutes in a hot oven.

Pudding a la Mayence.—Rub half a pint of breadcrumbs through a fine wire sieve, add to them a tumblerful of wine and water, half an half, the rind of a small lemon, washed, dried and grated, three heaped tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar, and an ounce of butter. Mix well, pour into a buttered soufflé dish, add the beaten yolks of two eggs, and the strained juice of the lemon. Beat the whites of the eggs to a very stiff froth, add powdered sugar to taste, and a pinch of salt. Color with a few drops of green spinach coloring, or pale pink with a little carmine or cochineal, pile on top, place in bag, put in a very moderate oven, and bake till the meringue is firmly set.

You will enjoy "The Phantom of the Opera," the new serial about to appear in these columns. The plot is frankly fantastic, but you don't mind that for a minute. You never think of improbabilities when you read it. You don't think of anything except the story. You want to know what's going to happen next. The illusion has you in its grip. You're completely fooled and you like it.

Week of Simultaneous Evangelistic Meetings Are Started in Four Protestant Churches.

COLD KEEPS PEOPLE AWAY

Visiting Ministers Are Occupying the First Baptist and United Presbyterian Churches.

The simultaneous evangelistic meetings were started in four of the Protestant churches of the city last night. The crowds were fair considering the weather although the severe cold undoubtedly kept many people by their firesides. It is unsettled yet whether or not the meetings shall continue longer than this week.

At the United Presbyterian church the Rev. George L. Brown, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church in Indianapolis, preached on the topic, "Personal Work." He will preach every night this week with the exception of Saturday night when no services will be held in any of the churches.

Last night the Rev. W. H. Wylie preached on the subject, "If We Neglect," and tonight his topic will be "The Wages of Sin." A chorus of voices, led by Dr. P. R. McClanahan, and the Sunday school orchestra, is furnishing the music at this church.

The Rev. Cyrus Yocum will preach tonight at the Main Street Christian church on the subject, "The Conversion of a Righteous Man" and last

ANANIAS CLUB IS WITHOUT A HOME

Faithful Few Retreat to Their Own Fireside or Brave Chill Winds on Street Corners.

NO HEAT IN THE COURT HOUSE

Not since 1896 has the Ananias club been without a home. The faithful members of that old and established organization were cast upon the streets of Rushville today and they are mere wanderers on the face of the earth, blown about by the bitter wind as the leaves of the earth in the fall. They are a sad and dejected lot today. Many of them had to retreat to their own firesides, a few tried a foreign fire to warm their feet and still a few others braved the chill winds on a downtown street corner for the sake of chronicling the happenings of the day.

The whole cause of the unusual condition is the county heating plant. It had to be shut down today to repair the pipes which convey the steam to the court house and that building is like a barn standing in some bleak field. The temperature is down around freezing, and one walking through the corridors would think it a holiday. The public library was closed for the want of heat and the offices might as well have been closed. The janitor built a fire in the grate in the auditor's office and there the county officials and deputies huddled most of the day.

HELD NO STATE LICENSE

E. D. Lewis of Carthage Fined For Illegal Embalming.

E. D. Lewis of Carthage pleaded guilty to the charge of embalming bodies without a State license yesterday before Squire Kratzer and was fined $10 and costs amounting in all to $18.75. Mr. Lewis has a son in Morristown, who is a licensed embalmer and it is understood that he has been helping his son in the business. It is said the State Board of Embalmers was preparing to bring action against Lewis for illegal practice and to avoid further trouble he voluntarily pleaded guilty.
